

Experience of a PhD Student in the Energy Sector

Meissam Bahlali

EDF R&D – CERECA

Département Mécanique des Fluides, Energies et Environnement (MFEE)

6 quai Watier – 78400 Chatou

ABSTRACT

In this talk, I will speak about my experience as a PhD student in the energy sector. After introducing my academic background and previous experience in the field, I will speak about my research now at EDF R&D, which focuses on the modelling of atmospheric dispersion of pollutants. I will then conclude with some perspectives on the further opportunities in the energy sector for a young researcher.